LIRA
Libraries of Illinois Risk Agency

Highlights:
- Library Specific Insurance
- Surplus Return
- Owned and Operated by Illinois Libraries
- Cost Savings
- Increased Coverage/Higher Limits
- In Person Safety Training

Testimonials:

"Participation in LIRA gives Illinois libraries an opportunity to get in on the ground floor of a collaborative endeavor that has the potential to affect significant cost savings over time. The strength of group participation enables LIRA to leverage more comprehensive coverages at competitive rates. In these challenging economic times when libraries face fierce competition for tax dollars and other fiscal struggles, it is a tremendous benefit."

Vickie Novak
Glenview Public Library

"Like many libraries, our rates have been going up each year, even with no claims. We have seen significant savings by joining the LIRA pool. In addition, we’ve already had to submit our first claim, and it was handled quickly and smoothly. I hope more libraries join the pool to further our purchasing power."

Jeanie Dilger
La Grange Public Library

"Because of my association with LIRA, I am a more sophisticated professional and steward for the library and community. I’ve learned more than I had in almost 30 years of working in libraries about safeguarding community assets as a direct result of my involvement with LIRA. I’m grateful to be an original participant in this valuable undertaking. Hopefully, additional Illinois libraries will come to understand LIRA is more than insurance; it’s a community pulling for each other contributing to a greater good, and ensuring all are stronger, safer, smarter, and better as a result."

Tina Hubert
Six Mile Public Library

"Being a member of LIRA I feel as if I am a partner instead of being a client. Whenever I have questions the team often responds within hours, if not sooner, with a knowledgeable, thorough answer. I am also very happy with LIRA’s carrier partners. I have a long and complicated workers compensation claim and they have been wonderful to work. I highly recommend LIRA to any library that wants a partner for their insurance needs. It offers superior coverage at a competitive cost and provides the members ability to receive money back!"

Welcome to Tinley Park!

On behalf of the 2017 Conference Program Committee, we are thrilled to welcome you to the 2017 Illinois Library Association Annual Conference - Rise Up!

Libraries of all types foster diversity, engage community, and champion social justice. This conference offers us an opportunity to come together and share our ideas to better our communities, our institutions, and ourselves. We’re so glad you’ve joined us as we showcase how librarians are making a difference, improving their libraries, and uplifting their patrons.

Opening Keynote speaker, Verna Myers, is sure to make you want to Rise Up! Myers is on a personal mission to disrupt the status quo and she knows how to: she’s lived it. Her dynamic, laugh-out-loud speech will inspire you to go further — to move beyond leveling the playing field to create a new field altogether — and empower people of all backgrounds to contribute at their highest levels.

Be sure to make time to visit the exhibit hall to check out the latest products and services for your library. The exhibits are open Wednesday and Thursday, with lunches and snack breaks provided.

We hope that in addition to attending inspiring presentations, panels, and poster sessions, you’ll take advantage of some opportunities to network and make new connections. Join us at the Wednesday night pub stroll, meet with colleagues on the exhibit floor, join a Tuesday night dine-around, or catch up over morning coffee.

At the end of the conference, you’ll definitely be ready to mark your calendar for next year’s ILA Annual Conference, October 9–11, 2018 in Peoria.

Join the conversation with us on Twitter, Instagram, and Facebook using the hashtag #ILAAC17. It’s time to Rise Up!

Good Things Happen When Libraries and Schools Work Together

• Students access the rich breadth of e-content at the library right from their desks
• Public libraries gain patrons and build increasing use and circulation of the digital content they own
• Communities benefit when their tax dollars provide digital resources that can be used by everyone

POSSIBILITY LIVES IN PUBLIC LIBRARIES

The Public Library Association (PLA) is home to the people who shape that possibility — the public library leaders and staff who invite everyone in to learn, do, and grow.

MEMBERSHIP
PLA member opportunities bring library people together, so they can strengthen what makes their library unique and invent what comes next.

EDUCATION
Public library staff must constantly adapt and absorb new responsibilities. PLA continuing education opportunities help keep members a step ahead.

LEADERSHIP
PLA builds public library leaders empowered with the skills necessary to be innovative and successful leaders of change.

ADVOCACY
PLA is committed to working on behalf of its members to move the profession forward and represent the interests of public libraries everywhere.

INITIATIVES
PLA’s groundbreaking initiatives do more than develop new skills — they move the public library profession to ever more innovative places.
- Digital Literacy
- Early Literacy
- Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion
- Family Engagement
- Global Libraries Legacy Partnership
- Health Literacy
- Inclusive Internship Initiative (III)
- Performance Measurement

OPEN POSSIBILITY. JOIN PLA.
PLA is where leadership, community, and innovation combine to create possibility for public library people. Because as you shape an essential institution, you deserve an indispensable ally. Become a PLA member today at www.pla.org.

Library Trustees begin their day with a light breakfast. The breakfast will be held in the same room as the 9:00 A.M. Trustee Keynote.

The Trustee Continental Breakfast is made possible by the generous support of Ancel Glink.

9:00 – 10:00 A.M.

I’m A Library Trustee, And My Role Is...?

Becoming a board member is much like becoming a parent. In both situations, it is assumed that if you know how to become one, you know how to be a good one. Not true in either situation! This presentation will focus on developing a better understanding of the power of a library trustee, the role of the board, being a part of the library leadership team, and understanding the board-staff relationship.

Speaker: Nancy Sylvester, Sylvester Enterprises, Inc.

Location: Exhibit North Ballroom

Nancy Sylvester’s appearance is made possible by the generous support of Pathmann Construction Management.

10:15 – 11:15 A.M.

Who’s Afraid of Robert’s Rules?

Who says parliamentary procedure has to be scary or boring? This workshop will help make parliamentary procedure understandable and useful to you. Nancy will cover quorum, agenda, steps in processing a motion, the concept of precedence of motions, the script of a motion, the meaning of votes, and basic characteristics of a motion. After this workshop the attendee will not only have a better understanding of parliamentary procedure, but will have the knowledge and skills to help run, or assist others in running, an effective meeting.

Does Your Library Board Reflect Your Community? – Strategies for Diversifying Your Boards

While many of our communities are growing more diverse in a multitude of ways, our governing bodies—Library, Foundation, and Friends Boards—often do not mirror these changes. Starting with big picture strategies for evolving your library board to better reflect the community, and leading to more short-term tips for broadening board recruitment, this session offers a method for diversifying your board leadership. Additionally, the presentation will look at ways to encourage your current trustees and board members to reach out to the community to expand and deepen community perspectives and leadership.

Speaker: Stu Wilson, Library Strategies

Answers to Your FOIA Questions: Revealed!

Transparency in government is more than just a buzz word—it’s the law. In this interactive session, you will learn about the Illinois Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) and how it affects local governments, officials, and employees. The speakers will use a Q&A game-show format to explore questions addressing compliance with FOIA, the legal pitfalls in the use of technology (e-mails, text messages, and social networking) by local government officials and employees; and how to address, and hopefully avoid, issues that may arise.

Demystifying the Levy—Making the Numbers Add Up

Levies are the foundation of every public library. The vast majority of a library’s funding is determined by the levy it passes each year. But the actual levy process is often misunderstood. How does that document we pass each year result in the funding we need? This program will help library directors and trustees fully understand how the levy and appropriation process works and how they can ensure their library captures all of the funds to which it is entitled.

Library Board of Trustees Meetings: Proper Procedures and Compliance with the Open Meetings Act

This program will teach attendees including—newly elected and seasoned library trustees, library directors and staff—proper procedures for complying with the ever-evolving Open Meetings Act. The program will be conducted as a mock library board of trustees meeting. Learn the requirements for posting meeting notices both on the library’s website and at the location of the meeting, the level of detail required for regular and special meeting agendas, open and closed session procedures, and electronic attendance requirements.

We will also review training requirements for elected officials and employees who may be Open Meetings Act designees under the Act.

TALK TABLE: Seeking Diversity: Building a Board That Resembles Your Community

For libraries to remain relevant to the communities they serve, top-level leadership must understand the community’s demographic characteristics. It’s easy to let candidates self-select, but this risks over-representing special interests. There’s tremendous value in diversifying your board, but many under-represented groups—the disabled, the immigrant, the young—may not even be aware of such opportunities. Boards need to pro-actively recruit trustees who can articulate what the library means to them, and implement such policies.

Opening Session
Featuring Verna Myers

Verna Myers is on a personal mission to disrupt the status quo and she knows how to: she’s lived it. Myers rose out of Baltimore’s working class to become a Harvard-trained lawyer, entrepreneur, author, and cultural innovator. Her dynamic, laugh-out-loud speeches inspire audiences to go further—to move beyond leveling the playing field to create a new field altogether—and empower people of all backgrounds to contribute at their highest levels. For the last two decades, Verna and her team of consultants have helped eradicate barriers of race, gender, ethnicity, and sexual orientation at elite international law firms, Wall Street powerhouses, and the 10,000 member Fire Department of New York City, with the aim of establishing a new, more productive, and just status quo.

Make Virtual Reality a Reality at Your Library

Virtual Reality is an emerging technology that allows users to experience digital and real-world environments in a unique way. For a modest investment, your library can procure this technology, which can be used for programming and experiential learning within the library; with circulation for an at-home experience; and as a sales tool to engage new and existing patrons, demonstrating how your library is committed to staying on top of the latest tech trends. In this session, we will provide case studies for how Arlington Heights Memorial Library and the Ela Area Public Library District successfully implemented this technology for our communities.

Speakers: Gregory Berger, Arlington Heights Memorial Library; and Anne Belden and Gus Palas, Ela Area Public Library District

Re-Sourcing Your Resources: Working with What You Have to Inspire Creative Engagement

Many libraries are facing increasing financial constraints, but as you know, librarians are a resourceful group. At the University of Illinois at Springfield we’ve decided not to let budget woes, staff shortages, or budget constraints hinder our ability to creatively connect with our community. By repurposing card catalog cards, bookends, book covers, and more we’ve been able to connect with, inspire, and engage our users in new and exciting ways. Come to our session to learn more about re-sourcing your own resources. We’ll show you how our patrons turned traditionally discarded materials into pieces of art. Join in the fun!

Comfortable Being Uncomfortable in the Library: Civic Engagement through Programming

The library has always been a place for everyone. The post-election atmosphere has seen us reaffirming our values to the country and in the communities we serve. Across communities, people are expressing an increased need for connecting, listening, learning and reliable information, creating unique opportunities for us to respond to national needs at a local level. Learn how three libraries have worked to remain nimble and prioritize offering more dialogue-driven, civic engagement programming and displays. Consider how timely delivery can impact resources and staff. Share your experiences and ideas in this interactive session.

Access to Justice in the Library: Librarians as First Responders in Promoting a Fair and Accessible Legal System

The law affects everything we do, but people don’t always know when they have a legal issue. Because many people seek answers at their local library, librarians are uniquely situated to promote access to justice by providing equal access to legal information, especially to those who cannot afford an attorney. Illinois Legal Aid Online partners with 150 libraries across Illinois to promote IllinoisLegalAid.org, an award-winning website that has free and effective self-help legal information, court forms, and local legal aid referrals. Two librarians will share their own experiences as first responders in providing self-help resources to empower library patrons.

Interrupting the Research Process: Using Standard Content and Rubrics for Student Success

English 102 students at one Illinois university are required to complete an Information Literacy workshop that interrupts the research process and provides the necessary research skills for writing a research paper. The librarian-taught workshop integrates a standard online module into the course management system, provides students with three face-to-face workshops, and requires the students to complete five assignments that are graded by the librarian. In this session, one librarian provides the successes and failures of standardizing some of the content for these workshops by using online modules and rubrics, providing examples of lesson plans and activities, and assessment outcomes.

Personalization with Privacy

Good customer service these days demands personalization, and companies like Amazon and Netflix use algorithms to match materials to our individual preferences. Librarians are great at giving personalized recommendations in person and by email, but how can we widen that experience to include patrons who never stop to talk to us? Managers from Skokie and Gail Borden public libraries share our experiences—including our failures!—using marketing automation to combine the data we already collect with what our patrons tell us they want. We’ll offer scalable and pragmatic ways to deliver tailored library content while fiercely protecting patron privacy.

Give Your Patrons the Superpower to Fight Fake News!

Fighting fake news is a superpower that every patron needs and it is one that libraries are ready to share. Librarians have been teaching about the importance of evaluating information for years. But the recent attention garnered by politicians spouting “Fake News” gives us another opportunity to share this topic with even more patrons. Learn how to help your patrons to root out false stories, misinformation, bias, and sponsorship. Practical strategies for teaching evaluation skills will be offered and successful program ideas will be solicited and shared. Help your patrons “rise up” by teaching them to take down fake news.

It’s Not “Just Part of the Job”: Breaking the Silence on Sexual Harassment in the Library

Sometimes the most important conversations are the hardest ones to start. Like many public-facing professionals, amid the overwhelming number of positive interactions, library staff will also encounter a patron whose comments make them feel uncomfortable or even unsafe. There's a tendency to see this as “just part of the job.” It’s time to change that narrative from accepting this inevitability to exploring new ways to respond. This program will begin with a presentation for context before turning to discussion. Questions addressing experiences, policies, and stigmas/preconceived ideas will be available via the website so participants can bring their own examples.

Getting Your Community to Say Yes!

Whether you are asking your community for a tax increase, funds for a new building or renovation, input on a new addition or implementing an initiative that needs positive public feedback or buy-in, you need a well-developed strategy. Staff from the Helen Plum Library in Lombard developed a campaign that motivated voters to approve a $22 million referendum for a new library building. They will share the techniques and processes that fueled their victory and will answer questions on how you can obtain success for your campaign.

Speakers: Joe Collier and Keary Bramwell, Mount Prospect Public Library; Wyatt Fertig and Marcy Rodriguez, Elmhurst Public Library; and Mona Reynolds, Cary Area Public Library

Author Breakfast

The annual breakfast will feature illustrator Terri Murphy, who has crafted a life surrounded by art, books, and children. She is the picture book illustrator for Dance Y’all, Dance and One Day I Went Rambling, authored by Kelly Bennett and published by Bright Sky Press, and frequent contributor to Spider, Ladybug and Cricket Magazines. She is also the Illustrator coordinator in Illinois for The Society of Children’s Book Writers and Illustrators (SCBWI), where she brings Chicago-area illustrators together for their continuing education. As a Youth Services Librarian at the Prospect Heights Public Library District, Terri develops Young Artists Workshops for children and teens and Young-at-Heart Artists Workshops for adults, which eventually make their way to other area libraries. Pre-registration is required for this ticketed event.

A booksigning will follow the breakfast. Book sales provided by After-Words Bookstore. Terri Murphy’s appearance is made possible by the generous support of Baker & Taylor.

Sync Your WorldCat Holdings to Improve Patron Access

OCLC Reclamations, now called Bibliographic Data Sync Collections, represents one of the behind-the-scenes projects technical services staff can complete to improve patron access to our institutions’ collections. A data sync matches records from your local catalog with records from WorldCat and updates your holdings. Benefit from our experience as we discuss our motivations for starting a data sync, our collection evaluation before beginning, the processing options, the importance of reviewing returned records, and how we reloaded the records. Also, learn how the projects have changed since migrating from Batchload Services to WorldShare Metadata Collection Manager.

The Secret Sauce: A Recipe for Collaborative Community Design

Dreaming of a 21st century library is one matter. Making it a reality is quite another. Normal Public Library Director Brian Chase and OPN Architects’ Mindy Sorg and Toby Olsen will share their recipe for a truly collaborative design process that begins and ends with an engaged community. Prior to collaborating with OPN Architects during a design challenge at the Library Journal Design Institute in 2015, a Library Planning Committee comprising two city council members, two board members, and the city manager had collaborated to lay the groundwork for a new library in Normal’s emerging Uptown district beginning in 2008 with a facilities and needs assessment. These studies served as a catalyst for community feedback, as well as a design studio with the University of Illinois School of Architecture. Hired through a formal RFP process in 2016, OPN was brought on to evaluate the site and complete conceptual design and urban planning. While OPN guided visioning sessions, design charrettes, and programming meetings to inform the design of the new library, the city’s planning of Uptown 2.0 was concurrently soliciting community input. This holistic approach has bridged the potential gap between a library and its community during the critical design development phase of the project and Normal is now poised to move forward with established, strong relationships and an aligned vision for a truly transformative library of the future for their community.

TALK TABLE: Hiring People Persons: Recognize the Passionate Hard-Worker and Give Them the Chance to Rise Up!

Are you torn between hiring the person that is most qualified on paper and the person who is most impressive in person? Do you worry over passing on more qualified individuals in order to have the people you want on your team? It is possible to go against logic and trust your intuition and sell it to your own supervisor. Chemistry within a team is ideal and the alternative is not a benefit for the library. If these concepts still make you feel guilty, join us for a discussion. If you’ve been doing this for years, let’s hear it!

Connecting Your Community with Makers

Experiencing an artist’s inspiration and process firsthand encourages creativity and innovation among individuals. Libraries can foster this creativity by connecting their community with makers. Discover how three libraries integrated art into their library with a Maker Fair featuring local artists, tinkerers, and hobbyists. Collaborating with artists and makers will enrich your library community in a new and dynamic way. Hear how they sought out participants, marketed the fest, and introduced their community to the Maker Movement.

The Civic Lab & Beyond: Civic Engagement through Resources & Programming

Civic engagement is a core library value that seems even more urgent in today’s polarized political landscape. How can we facilitate meaningful learning opportunities in the library to address these times? The Civic Lab is a pop-up library that encourages dialogue, exploration, and engagement on issues affecting our community. Featuring all-ages collections and resources on current events—such as climate change, Black Lives Matter, and executive orders—the flexible, mobile space is also used for inclusive programming. Learn how such pop-up spaces and other select programs can be used to cultivate civic discourse and conversation.

Bring the Conference Home: Using the Conference Format for Staff Training and Professional Development
Are you looking for staff training ideas that foster leadership and skill development in a fun and engaging way? At Aurora Public Library we’ve adopted a new approach to the traditional annual staff training day by organizing a mini-conference. For the past three years we’ve put together a full day of keynote presentations, concurrent sessions, internal and external speakers, and round tables — all open to all staff. The approach has turned out to be extremely popular, with high staff approval ratings on post-event surveys, and has helped promote a more cohesive work and customer service environment.

How Illinois Libraries Borrow for New Facilities

The issuance of bonds and debt certificates are the principal way local Illinois governments, including libraries, borrow money. Most library leaders are rarely involved in bond issuance during the course of their careers, and some may find the process confusing and frustrating. This presentation will provide participants with the basics of issuing bonds in Illinois and will allow you to be an active decision-maker for your organization rather than a bystander relying solely on consultants to get you through.

1,000 Books Before Kindergarten Like You’ve Never Seen It Before

Let’s revamp 1,000 Books Before Kindergarten! We know the connection between early literacy and school readiness, but did you know that research has shown that getting a trinket or badge may keep a child reading in the short-term, but it’s not a viable strategy for long-term reading growth? Rather, the goal is for the child to experience positive feelings as a result of engagement with story. Come learn about how we have replaced traditional prizes with meaningful experiences in the library that encourage intrinsic motivation for lifelong learning and reading. Plus save your library’s wallet!

The Future of the 21st Century Library

The 21st century library has been evolving over the last decade. What are some of the issues that accompany these changes? How are we working to reach all patrons and students successfully? Are there differences within different types of libraries, and if so, what do those differences look like? Come for a discussion on identifying key issues in libraries and what we can do to address them.

What Now? Diversity, Intellectual Freedom, and Activism

Our Voices, an American Library Association initiative, strives to facilitate the production and placement of diverse children’s books into libraries. But, is diversity for diversity’s sake enough, or should we be thinking more deeply and be more discriminating when evaluating diverse content? This panel features Our Voices Advisory Council members, all of whom work within the children’s publishing ecosystem. Join them as they share their views on what diversity in children’s literature means to them, discuss issues of censorship, intellectual freedom, and activism, and why all these things matter in the production, distribution, and collection development of diverse materials.

You’re My Whole World! What Patron-Centered Service Really Looks Like

What does it mean to give patrons what they want? How can you do that and not go broke or insane? Being a patron-centered library means finding ways to say yes rather than saying no. This session explains how one library is able to offer such service and keep their sanity—and how you can too! Learn how to identify your NO barriers and rise above them to “go the extra mile.” Being a patron-centered library will improve your library’s reputation, increase your job satisfaction, and make your patrons’ experiences memorable.

Rise Up with the Arts Latino-Style!

As funding for the arts is imperiled, libraries have the opportunity to enhance arts education for their customers in innovative ways. We will show you examples of programs and exhibits through which Latino children and adults in our community have engaged with the creative arts— theater, painting, crafts, dance and music—and developed 21st century skills. Because we focus on Latino heritage, we will also share our strategies to tap into and spotlight the wealth of resources in our community and celebrate its diversity.

We Should Run: Library Workers in Public Office

Library workers from all areas of service are uniquely positioned as advocates in our communities. Having more library workers in public office leads to stronger boards, stronger libraries, and stronger communities on local, state, and federal levels. Not to mention that it’s good for our own professional development! But where to begin? We will share our personal experiences from the day we decided to step out from behind the desk and jump into the political fray, to our current positions at the big table. We’re here to encourage you to step up, advocate, and lead too.

Collaborative Collection Development: Growing Collections in Times of Austerity

As libraries in Illinois are faced with declining budgets, some are considering cooperative collection development as a strategic way of spending funds and sharing resources. Several Illinois libraries have started small-scale collaborative collection projects that require minimal commitment from libraries, but increase the number of unique titles that can be shared among Illinois libraries. This session will describe best practices for initiating and assessing simple but effective cooperative collection development projects. While the project took place at academic and research libraries, best practices are applicable to any library setting.

Librarian Perceptions of Information Literacy Misconceptions by First-Year College Students

The process of learning includes not only success in developing knowledge, skills, and abilities but also mistakes and errors that impede such success. In any domain of learning, instructors will have developed a sense of the typical errors learners make. Wiggins and McTigue, in Understanding by Design (2005), term these “predictable misunderstandings” and encourage consideration of them in the instructional design process in order to anticipate and overcome learner misconceptions. This session will share the results of a study to document the predictable misunderstandings by first-year college students in information literacy learning. Presenters will include graduate student research team members Jillian Collier and Allison Rand.

Rise Up to the Wave of Change

Journalist Sydney Harris once said, “Our dilemma is that we hate change and love it at the same time; what we really want is for things to remain the same but get better.” Change is inevitable. We constantly adapt to the world around us in order to continue to survive and grow. We need to adapt and grow to serve the changing needs of our customers. To do this, we have to help our teams embrace change. This session will arm you with the tools you need to lead your teams through the changes we face today. Whether you are a manager leading staff, or on a team where things are changing, this session will provide you the tools to ride the wave of change.

Flip the Library Orientation:
Partnering to Create Videos that Engage and Educate
Faced with less face-to-face time in a nursing orientation, two librarians flipped instruction with pre-session, home-grown videos that were “good enough” for year one. The next year, they applied for and received a grant to partner with their university’s School of Communication to professionalize the video products. As a result of audience analysis, script development, and student talent, the dichotomy between the initial videos and professional ones was significant, especially in terms of appeal to the target audience. Hear about the experience from librarian, student, and production staff viewpoints to envision similar programming partnerships in other settings.

May I Google (Scholar) That for You?: Utilizing Open Access Sources to Fill Patron Requests
Have you noticed an increased difficulty in filling patron article requests due to fewer current print holdings, embargoes, and e-journal format deflections in WorldShare? In an attempt to provide patrons with faster turnaround times and increase fill rates, Melick Library began a new workflow in 2015 which systematically searched Google Scholar, ResearchGate, and Google to locate articles available online prior to placing a traditional WorldShare request. Attendees will learn about our project’s results and successes, how utilizing Open Access can enhance library services, and factors to consider when attempting to recreate a similar workflow at their own institutions.

Dealing in Diversity: Proactively Serving Communities through Authentic Representation

Let’s lay out the facts: more than 80% of librarians are white women. Does your collection reflect your community or does it look more like you? Join the Adult Reading Round Table (ARRT) as we present a panel of librarians, publishers, and authors who will grapple with this touchy subject. Our panel will share straight talk, real world experiences, and practical strategies that build off of the We Need Diverse Books initiative for children, this time with a focus on serving teens and adults. Come ready to engage in this lively and vital conversation.

Sonali Dev’s appearance is made possible by the generous support of the Adult Reading Round Table.

Does Your Library Board Reflect Your Community? Strategies for Diversifying Your Boards

While many of our communities are growing more diverse in a multitude of ways, our governing bodies — Library, Foundation, and Friends Boards — often do not mirror these changes. Starting with big picture strategies for evolving your Library Board to better reflect the community, and leading to more short-term tips for broadening Board recruitment, this session offers a method for diversifying your Board leadership. Additionally, the presentation will look at ways to encourage your current Trustees and Board members to reach out to the community to expand and deepen community perspectives and leadership.

Answers to Your FOIA Questions: Revealed!

Transparency in government is more than just a buzz word — it’s the law. In this interactive session, you will learn about the Illinois Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) and how it affects local governments, officials, and employees. The speakers will use a Q&A game-show format to explore questions addressing compliance with FOIA; the legal pitfalls in the use of technology (emails, text messages, and social networking) by local government officials and employees; and how to address, and hopefully avoid, issues that may arise.

What Do I Say? Crisis Communications for the 21st Century

In the digital world, libraries communicate with patrons frequently, creatively, and in real time, making a robust and new media-ready crisis communications plan a must. Planning is key to successfully navigating through emergencies, especially when you need to empower staff to speak on the library’s behalf. In this session, you’ll learn the essential components of an effective crisis communications plan and leave with tools to conduct your own communications audit and begin building a document that works for you and your library, on all the channels you use to communicate with patrons.

Hard Times: Operating User Services on Short Staff, Short Funds, and Short Hope

Like other universities in Illinois, Northern Illinois University has suffered the effects of two years of a lack of a state budget, and this has, of course, impacted the library. One major impact has been on the inability to hire due to budget constraints. User Services has seen four staff retire—a quarter of the department. This presentation discusses how labor was redistributed from within the department and elsewhere, the effects on service, staff, and morale, as well as possible future plans without relief on the horizon.

TALK TABLE: Seeking Diversity: Building a Board That Resembles Your Community

For libraries to remain relevant to the communities they serve, top-level leadership must understand the community’s demographic characteristics. It’s easy to let candidates self-select, but this risks over-representing of special interests. There’s tremendous value in diversifying your board, but many under-represented groups—the disabled, the immigrant, the young—may not even be aware of such opportunities. Boards need to pro-actively recruit trustees who can articulate what the library means to them, and implement such policies.

Demystifying the Levy—Making the Numbers Add Up
Levies are the foundation of every public library. The vast majority of a library’s funding is determined by the levy it passes each year. But the actual levy process is often misunderstood. How does that document we pass each year result in the funding we need? This program will help library directors and trustees fully understand how the levy and appropriation process works and how they can ensure their library captures all of the funds to which it is entitled.

Composting at the Library

Food waste contributes to global warming when it is put in the garbage—a.k.a. landfill—and methane is released into the atmosphere. As a leading greenhouse gas, methane is 84 times more potent than carbon dioxide during its first two decades. One inexpensive way libraries can lower their carbon footprint is by composting staff-generated food scraps. Composting turns food scraps into a useful product that can be used on library grounds or elsewhere. This poster shows how one library’s composting program evolved from a 2-person volunteer-based system salvaging coffee grounds into a streamlined system that diverts 20 gallons of produce and coffee grounds from the landfill each month. Library composting turns waste into valuable product used by Illinois businesses and reduces the library’s carbon footprint by diverting waste from methane-producing landfills.

Do People Use Little Free Libraries?

Little Free Libraries: do they just look cute, or do they actually work? We would like to present a poster summarizing the results of our study of book circulation in Chicago-area Little Free Libraries. Our research is small-scale and is primarily designed to identify areas for further research, but given the broad appeal of Little Free Libraries (especially the “aww” factor), we anticipate that many people may be interested in our findings. For organizations and individuals whose main goal is to increase book circulation, this may have implications for whether and where they erect a Little Free Library. Our presentation will include a 4’x8’ poster summarizing what prompted our study, how we conducted it, and what we found, including a map and photos of the Little Free Libraries we studied, and infographics of our data and analysis. For visitors who want to learn more, copies of our paper How Do People Use Little Free Libraries will be available to peruse or to download by scanning a QR code.

Potter, Power and Politics: Serving as Democratic Citizens and Advocating for Justice in a Global Environment

Millikin University, in Decatur, Illinois, offers Global Immersion courses on a yearly basis. Librarians get excited about the one entitled “Potter, Power and Politics.” At the end of the course, students get to travel to the United Kingdom to experience the world where J. K. Rowling conceived Harry Potter. The prospect of travel is exciting, but there is a lot of work to be done first. Reading the books—again. Watching the movies—again. The students must keep a reading and travel blog, as well as write a white paper, and a research paper. The purpose of this course is to “foster critical thinking about the ways in which power and politics have impacted people and communities throughout the world.” A librarian will sign up for a course such as this for the adventure of travel, and complete the course with a whole new view of the world.

BookBins: The “Little Free Libraries” of Outreach

In 2015, with outreach demands rising, the Bloomingdale Public Library developed a program to extend the Library’s services to the community, with minimal demand on staff time. Using curated selections of materials that had been weeded from the Youth Services collection—including puppets and puzzles—the Library created BookBins, rolling plastic tubs emblazoned with the Library’s logo and filled with materials for children that could be placed around town in waiting rooms and locations where children are often present, but seldom occupied. Each business signs a simple agreement with the Library and receives a bin of materials that is rotated periodically. So far, doctors’ offices, small businesses, banks, and the Post Office have been the pilot partners in this program and the feedback has been great! With an article in the Summer 2017 issue of Children & Libraries, Bloomingdale Public Library hopes to expand this program and share their success with others!

A SWOT Analysis of a Fledgling Textbook Reserve Program on a Non-Traditional Campus

Nationally, 7 out of 10 students skip purchasing a textbook due to costs. At Northeastern Illinois University (NEIU) textbooks are one of the most requested types of items at the Reference Desk. In 2016, NEIU instituted its first library student fee based on credit hours; this allowed librarians to develop a fledgling textbook reserve program. NEIU is the most diverse university in the Midwest. It's largely a commuter campus with non-traditional students, 77% of whom receive some form of financial aid. Textbooks can cost up to $1,250 a year for an average student at a public 4-year institution. We present a SWOT analysis of our program, reviewing circulation statistics, participation rates by department, and other qualitative and quantitative data. Armed with this data, this poster presents challenges that accompany the set-up of this new service along with ideas for moving forward.

Developing News Literacy for Future Reporters: Instruction for “Knowledge Journalism”

How do you help students considering journalism as a career develop news literacy? While the University of Chicago does not have a communications or journalism program, students interested in the field can take special courses in the College’s Creative Writing Program. In 2016, a new course was developed entitled “Special Topics in Non-Fiction: Knowledge Journalism.” The course was designed to help aspiring journalists learn how to write news stories based on research findings. The instructor for the course invited the library to provide instruction on finding peer reviewed literature for their assignments. Once we began working with the faculty member, we soon realized that we not only needed to help students find academic sources, but also introduce broader news literacy frameworks. The library designed a hands-on exercise to teach students how to evaluate sources for the course, plus develop essential information literacy skills for their future careers.

Trends and Directions in the ILLINET Interlibrary Loan Traffic Survey: A Five-Year Analysis of Academic Libraries in Illinois

For its 2016-17 annual project, the CARLI Resource Sharing Committee compiled data from, and analyzed trends in, the ILLINET Interlibrary Loan Traffic Survey for FY2012 to FY2016 (the last five years for which information was available). The analysis focused specifically on academic libraries in Illinois and included both returnable (books, DVDs, makerkits, etc.) and nonreturnable (electronic resources, particularly articles) items. Through the data gathered, the committee hopes to provide useful information for these libraries to plan, evaluate, and revise their interlibrary loan and collection-development policies. This poster will summarize the committee’s data findings, showing the changing trends in lending and borrowing levels across Illinois academic libraries during the five-year period, and will allow further investigation into topics such as the connections among interlibrary loan volume, patron needs, and collection-development policies.

Bring Local History to Life: From City Hall to Your Fingertips

Recent digitization projects have enabled Chicago Public Library to create an online resource of local elected officials. We took a card file that had biographical mentions of elected officials and expanded it to an Excel file, and ultimately published it on our website. We looked for biographical information, using full text searching in Google, Hathitrust, Internet Archive, CCC, and others. For most of the 1,600 elected officials (aldermen, treasurer, clerk, mayor), we recorded office, dates served, and any other interesting notes. The poster will describe the research technique and show screenshots of the resource’s portraits and other illustrations.

Website Redesign with the Community in Mind

As part of a three-year strategic plan, the presenter was appointed objective leader of the website redevelopment team. Over the course of a year-and-a-half the team was responsible for reviewing and analyzing trends in website design, drafting an RFP for an outside firm to assist with development and then reviewing submissions, meeting with the community to gather feedback and input into the website, working with the firm to redesign the library’s website, and then launching the site. The purpose of this poster session will be to provide practical information to fellow Illinois libraries about getting started with a website redesign, engaging stakeholders, going through the actual process of a redesign using an outside firm, and ideas on what to do with your new website once it is turned over to your organization and goes live.

Recharge: Continuing Education for Library Leaders

The Recharge Committee is a group of Chicagoland librarians who coordinate continuing education opportunities for library staff in the area. Formerly RLA-CE, we put on numerous programs and field trips each year, concentrating on various aspects of library service: children, teens, adults, technology, management, and more. Our goal is to provide engaging, inspiring, and meaningful events featuring area librarians and library staff who share their unique expertise and encourage us all. Examples of past offerings include “Management from All Sides,” “Extending Our Reach: Libraries, Social Workers, and Community Partnerships,” and field trips to ALA headquarters and the Pritzker Military Library. In this poster session, we’ll highlight recent past programs and share upcoming opportunities for professional development.

Literacy Resources for Serving Individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorder

Two programs of the Illinois State Library (ISL), Targeting Autism and the Literacy office, have collaborated to develop resources for libraries to better serve individuals and families impacted by autism spectrum disorder. As a result of this collaboration, an autism friendly adaptation section has been added to every Adult New Reader Book Club and Family Literacy Story Kit facilitators guide. The adaptation section offers suggestions on communication tips, visual guides and programming ideas for libraries to make learning experiences more inclusive and comfortable for those on the autism spectrum. In addition, three new titles featuring characters with autism spectrum disorder have been added to the collections. This poster session will introduce these autism friendly resources and encourage Illinois libraries to borrow these items from the ISL.

Every Veteran Has A Story... Make Sure Yours Is Heard!

The Office of the Illinois Secretary of State is a founding partner of the Veterans’ History Project, dedicated to collecting and preserving the histories of American veterans and civilians who served in wars from World War I to the present. Since 2004, the Illinois Veterans’ History Project (IVHP) has striven to honor men and women from Illinois who have served their country by recording their stories. The Illinois Court Reporters Association partners with the Illinois Veterans’ History Project to provide interview transcriptions. To date, nearly 6,000 digitized Illinois Patriot Forms can be accessed in the State Library’s Illinois Digital Archives, and approximately 300 streamed interviews are available on the Illinois Veterans’ History Project YouTube channel. Ask about the IVHP and how you can help to insure that their stories are told, so that their contributions will not be forgotten.

Richard Shurman

As the administrator of Cooperative Computer Services (CCS) until retiring in 2015 after almost twenty-eight years of leadership, Shurman embodies the spirit of library cooperation in Illinois. He began his career with the DuPage Library System (DLS) where he worked to develop the system’s first consortium for sharing resources. During his tenure at CCS, it grew into a consortium of twenty-four public libraries in the north and northwest suburbs of Chicago with 650,000 cardholders, over one million titles, and 5.6 million item records. Shurman achieved all this through building consensus among members with considerable differences in budget, population, geographic location, or governmental structure. Large city libraries like Evanston and Des Plaines worked together with small district libraries, such as Lincolnwood and Prospect Heights; libraries in Wilmette and Lake Forest found common ground with libraries in Crystal Lake and Huntley. Each library has a unique constituency, unique board of trustees, and unique sets of priorities. Shurman’s leadership style ensured that every viewpoint had the opportunity to be heard and each member was provided with unbiased information to reach a decision. His professional memberships include state and national organizations and active participation in user groups, and he has served on committees and presented at conferences throughout his career, sharing his expertise on consortia with eager audiences.

Alexander W. Todd, Jr.

Alex Todd was the director of the Fountaimage Public Library District (FPLD) for twenty-six years and helped the district’s two library buildings grow with their communities. Born in 1928 in Vandalia and growing up in Belleville, Todd attended the United States Naval Academy and had a twenty-five-year naval career prior to joining the library profession. He earned his MLS from Drexel University in 1972 and served as director of the Pitman Public Library in New Jersey before moving his family to Bolingbrook in 1974 to lead FPLD. Todd has always been a strong advocate for libraries having their own dedicated funding. In the late 1970s and early 1980s, he traveled the state along with Jane Shaw, Pam Feather, and Marlene Deuel, encouraging library boards to form library districts. In 1986, Todd worked with his board president Hilary Rosenthal to write the “Standards for the Public Library” section of the first edition of the Trustee Facts File, published by the Illinois Library Association. His work gained him recognition as ILA’s Librarian of the Year in 1986, and even today, twenty years after his retirement, librarians around the state still ask about him and send their good wishes. He has left an indelible mark on Illinois libraries professionally, structurally, and personally.

Carol Iffland Todd

Carol Iffland Todd worked in public, special, and system libraries in Illinois for nearly thirty years. Born in Massachusetts and educated in Michigan (MALS from University of Michigan), she made Illinois her home. After starting her career at the La Grange Public Library in 1969, she became the first degreed children’s librarian at the Woodridge Public Library. During her tenure, she implemented several innovative programs that would soon become professional standards, including classes in 8mm film animation. She also worked to bring renowned authors to the small library, including Sid Fleischman, whose original drawings are still on display there. The Woodridge Rotary Club presented her with a certificate of recognition for her work with handicapped children. After a move to New Jersey, she returned to Illinois and joined the Burr Oak Library System as a children’s consultant and general consultant, working on the statewide summer reading initiative that evolved into iREAD. She later directed the Lemont Public Library and taught at St. Xavier University before accepting her capstone position with Bellcore Tec (a national telecommunications training center) in Lisle. She ran the center’s staff library for thirteen years until her retirement in 1997. While at Bellcore, she earned a Master of Adult and Continuing Education degree from National Louise University. She was active in LACONI, the Suburban and Burr Oak Library Systems, the Illinois Library Association, the American Library Association, and the Special Library Association. She served as guest editor and wrote articles for issues of Illinois Libraries. Her diverse and varied career had a widespread impact on our profession, a model for future generations of librarians.

Mark Sorensen

Mark Sorensen has served public libraries, both professionally and privately since 1982. After a career of twenty-one years with the Illinois State Archives, he retired as assistant director. Sorensen was instrumental in maintaining records management systems for all Illinois public libraries, as well as creating traveling exhibits for display at libraries throughout the state. In 1988, he was put in charge of two commissions to add artwork to the State Capitol in commemoration of its 100th anniversary. He has served as Official Macon County Historian since appointment by the county board in 2004 and is a past president of the Illinois State Historical Society. Sorensen is also a past president and current member of the Decatur Public Library Board, was vice president for public programs for the Friends organization, a member of the library foundation, and a consulting archivist for both the Decatur and Moweaqua libraries. While president of the Decatur library, a program for special library services for Macon County businesses was instituted that served as a model for other libraries throughout the state. A recipient of the Studs Terkel Humanities Service Award from the Illinois Humanities Council and a Lifetime Achievement Award from the Illinois State Historical Society, Sorensen is also a member of the American Library Association, Society of American Archivists, Midwest Archives Conference, and a Charter member of the Academy of Certified Archivists. He holds degrees from Eastern Illinois University, the University of Illinois Springfield, and the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in education, history, and library and information science.

Ruth Gregory, 1901–2001

Ruth Gregory was the head librarian of the Waukegan Public Library from 1935 to 1976, and active in both state and national library associations throughout her career. She was a member of the American Library Association (ALA), serving on ALA Council and the ALA Executive Board, and was president of the Public Library Association in 1954-55. In 1976, Gregory was named Librarian of Year by the Illinois Library Association. She also taught librarianship at the University of Wisconsin-Madison and at Drexel University in Philadelphia. After retiring from the Waukegan Public Library, Gregory consulted with more than fifty libraries on new buildings, collection development, and administrative issues. She authored a number of professional publications including the American Library Association’s Anniversaries and Holidays, 3rd edition, 1975, and 4th edition, 1983, co-authored Public Libraries in Cooperative Systems, 1971; and served as an editor for Public Libraries, the official journal of the Public Library Association. Gregory held degrees from the University of Nebraska and what is now the School of Library and Information Studies at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Carla Hayden

Carla Hayden was sworn in as the 14th Librarian of Congress on September 14, 2016. Hayden, the first woman and the first African American to lead the national library, was nominated to the position by President Barack Obama on February 24, 2016, and her nomination was confirmed by the U.S. Senate on July 13. Prior to her latest post she served, since 1993, as CEO of the Enoch Pratt Free Library in Baltimore, Maryland. Hayden was nominated by President Obama to be a member of the National Museum and Library Services Board in January 2010 and was confirmed to that post by the Senate in June 2010. Prior to joining the Pratt Library, Hayden was deputy commissioner and chief librarian of the Chicago Public Library from 1991 to 1993. She was an assistant professor for Library and Information Science at the University of Pittsburgh from 1987 to 1991. Hayden was library services coordinator for the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago from 1982 to 1987. She began her career with the Chicago Public Library as the young adult services coordinator from 1979 to 1982 and as a library associate and children’s librarian from 1973 to 1979. Hayden was president of the American Library Association from 2003 to 2004. In 1995, she was the first African American to receive Library Journal’s Librarian of the Year Award in recognition of her outreach services at the Pratt Library, which included an after-school center for Baltimore teens offering homework assistance and college and career counseling. Hayden received a B.A. from Roosevelt University and an M.A. and Ph.D. from the Graduate Library School of the University of Chicago.

Becky Siegel Spratford
What began as a test—working in a Chicago law firm library just to make sure she didn’t want to be a lawyer—quickly became a calling, and today, Becky Siegel Spratford’s name is synonymous with Readers’ Advisory. Spratford co-created the Readers’ Advisory department at the Berwyn Public Library and worked there from 2000 to 2015. For eight of those years, she also taught the Readers’ Advisory course to hundreds of students at Dominican University in River Forest. She now brings training directly to libraries, influencing thousands of library workers through programs and her critically-acclaimed blog, RA for All. The author of the The Readers’ Advisory Guide to Horror, she also writes for EBSCO’s NovelList database, Booklist, and Library Journal. She is a member of the Illinois Adult Reading Roundtable (ARRT) Steering Committee and the Illinois Library Association (ILA), serving on the 2014 ILA Annual Conference Committee. Spratford was president of the La Grange Public Library Board of Trustees from 2008 to 2011 and was recently elected to her fifth term. She holds a BA in American Studies from Amherst College and an MLIS from Dominican University.

Kathy Parker
Kathy Parker’s library career began in second grade, shelving books at her elementary school library, continued at her high school library, and led to her first job at the Tinley Park Public Library at age seventeen. Her public library career has spanned more than thirty-five years and included working in the circulation, children’s, interlibrary loan, adult reference, and bookmobile departments, as well as eight years as a law library assistant for two law firms in Chicago. Upon earning her MLS, Parker worked as the assistant director at the Harvey Public Library District before becoming the director at the Glenwood-Lynwood Public Library District in 2002. During her tenure at Glenwood-Lynwood, she started a new bookmobile and outreach service, passed a successful bond referendum, and built a $6-million library facility. She is committed to promoting and providing continuing education opportunities for library staff and trustees and was a founding member of ATLAS (Area Training for Librarians and Staff) and Directors University, a statewide program for new library directors begun in 2017. Over the years, she has served on many library committees and boards within Illinois, including trustee at the Tinley Park Public Library and serving as both president and treasurer of the Reaching Across Illinois Library System (RAILS). She is also the 2016 recipient of the American Library Association’s Trustee Citation.

Inducted Thursday, 15 June 2017.

Deirdre Brennan
Deirdre Brennan has been an enthusiastic and tireless advocate for resource sharing and multitype library cooperation throughout her career. She consistently works to remove barriers to bring as many participants to the resource-sharing table as possible, no matter what their library type, size, or financial capability. Her underlying philosophy is that we are “stronger together.” At the start of her career in Massachusetts, Brennan worked to increase statewide library funding and to reorganize three public library systems into six multitype systems. Upon coming to Illinois, she served as executive director of Oak Park Public Library and led that library to receive Library Journal’s highly coveted five-star designation and a 97 percent approval rating from residents. As chair of the Illinois Library Association’s (ILA) Public Policy Committee, Brennan wrote a grant that led to the groundbreaking Future of Illinois Library Cooperation project, which she co-chaired. As executive director of the Reaching Across Illinois Library System (RAILS) since 2013, she initiated grants to help libraries join shared catalogs and for libraries of different types to collaborate on innovative projects. She led efforts to change Illinois administrative rules to include continuing education and consulting as core system services. She initiated the outsourcing of delivery to improve service and helped bring affordable access to e-resources to all Illinois residents. Brennan consistently looks for ways to share RAILS services with libraries throughout Illinois. She has reinvented system services while maintaining a healthy financial reserve. In 2016, she received ILA’s 2016 Hugh C. Atkinson award to honor her resource sharing efforts.

Pam Van Kirk

Pam Van Kirk’s library career started with typing catalog cards at the Western Illinois Library System when she was sixteen years old. She was encouraged to attend graduate school in library science after college graduation. In 2010, she retired as director of the Galesburg Public Library after a long career in school and public libraries, serving as president of the Illinois Library Association in 2012-2013. Van Kirk believed that a library should be relevant to all potential users, and worked tirelessly to make the Galesburg Public Library highly visible with the assistance of a hardworking staff, supportive board, and appreciative customers. Whether she appeared as “Lizzie,” the library mascot; choreographed a book cart drill team; coordinated P.I.G. (sixty decorated life-sized pigs in Galesburg); or led cheers as an elf at the holiday parade, she made sure that residents knew about library services and programming. Van Kirk was a member of the Galesburg Area Chamber of Commerce, served on the board of the Downtown Galesburg Business Association, and participated on numerous committees. She served on the board of directors for the Illinois Center for the Book and the Alliance Library System, presenting and participating in regional and statewide library conferences, workshops, and events. Honors include being named Administrator of the Year by the Alliance Library System and a Paul Harris Fellow for her contributions to Galesburg. Van Kirk always wanted libraries to be vibrant, welcoming places. She was often the loudest person in the library and sometimes had to be quieted by customers or students. A mentor to many librarians throughout central Illinois and an advocate for collaboration, her cheerful attitude and can-do spirit have left a positive mark on the Illinois library community.

Phil Lenzini

Phil Lenzini is an attorney at law based in Peoria and represents more than 200 public libraries throughout the state of Illinois. A longtime champion of libraries and the services they provide, Lenzini is a regular presenter at programs held by the Illinois State Library and at Illinois Library Association annual conferences. In addition, he participates in dozens of continuing education events for various library clients and library systems. Among his many activities, he drafts policies and legal commentary for the Administrative Ready Reference page on the Illinois Secretary of State’s website. As an active member of the Illinois State Bar Association, Lenzini serves the state and his library clients as a member of the local government law committee. Through that committee, he lobbies members of the Illinois General Assembly on areas of interest to libraries and other municipal entities, especially with respect to unintended budgetary consequences of proposed legislation. Lenzini received his B.A. degree from Southern Illinois University (SIU) in 1972 and his J.D. in the charter class of SIU’s School of Law in 1976.

Keith Michael Fiels

Keith Michael Fiels served as executive director of the 55,000-member American Library Association (ALA) headquartered in Chicago, from 2002 to 2017. Prior to coming to ALA, he served as director of the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners. Under his leadership, ALA established a new Office for Library Advocacy that provided expanded support for state and local advocacy efforts around the country, including the Libraries Transform public awareness campaign, which now involves 6,000 libraries. A new ALA Center for the Future of Libraries promotes innovation and creativity in libraries, ALA’s professional publishing and professional development programs have grown dramatically, as well as outreach to library trustee and Friends groups. Most recently, ALA fought back an attempt by the new administration to eliminate all federal funding for libraries. In Massachusetts, he worked with the state legislature to secure over $500 million in state funds for public library reconstruction and to provide universal access to shared online systems and the collective resources of thousands of Massachusetts libraries. Fiels has also served as president of the Chief Officers of State Library Agencies (COSLA), as the founding director of a library consortium in New Jersey, and as a library development consultant for the New York and New Jersey state libraries. Over the course of his 48-year career, he has worked as a public librarian, a school librarian, and as an independent library consultant. He is co-author of a number of books on planning and technology, and has spoken about libraries at hundreds of conferences, workshops, and other public events.

Nominees Sought

The ILA 2018 Nominating Committee is soliciting nominees to run on the 2018 spring ballot for the ILA Executive Board, including the office of ILA Vice President/President-elect.

The Nominating Committee will select two candidates to run for each of the four Director-at-Large seats, and the Vice President/President-elect. The President-elect will serve a three-year term as: President-elect in 2018–2019, President in 2019–2020, and Immediate Past President in 2020–2021. Director-at-Large seats are also three-year terms.

The Illinois Library Association Executive Board is the governing body of the association and is comprised of fifteen directors serving a three-year term. The board adopts and oversees implementation and evaluates all plans, policies, programs, and budget for the association. Together, board members constitute leadership of the association and assume responsibility for its success.

Members who wish to make nominations should submit the following information: nominee name; present position; institution; address; telephone; fax; and e-mail address. Self-nominations are encouraged. All potential nominees will be asked to complete a Potential Candidate Biographical Form that will be e-mailed to them.

Nominations may be sent to any member of the 2018 Nominating Committee

In early July, both the Illinois House and Senate passed budget bills that were vetoed by the governor, and with bi-partisan support, overrode the vetoes. The approved budget reflects approximately $3 billion in spending reductions from FY 2017, along with an increase in the state income tax. Republican support for the budget, specifically from downstate districts where higher education cuts had significant negative effects may have signaled a new era of cooperation, but it’s too soon to tell. Specific implications for libraries include current funding levels in most line items in the Illinois Secretary of State’s budget, while higher education budgets look to be approximately 10 percent lower across the board.

ILA’s Advocacy Efforts

In addition to urging passage of the budget bills, ILA introduced three bills this year and all three passed both successfully.

- House Bill 373, Public Act 100-0245. This legislation amends the Illinois Local Library Act to permit a library board of trustees to submit the accurate tax levy amount required to fund its upcoming fiscal year no less than sixty days prior to when the tax levy must be certified under the Property Tax Code.

- House Bill 547, Public Act 100-0338. This legislation raises the bid advertisement dollar amount for library construction, remodeling, repairing, or building improvements from $20,000 to $25,000; and

- Senate Bill 2068, Public Act 100-0462. This legislation allows library boards to authorize specific, non-binding advisory questions to be placed on the ballot at the next regularly scheduled election in the city, village, incorporated town, or township in which the public library is located.

In addition to advocating for specific legislation, ILA opposes laws that are deemed detrimental to the library community. That was the case with Senate Bill 864, a proposal that would prohibit annexations without a front-door, binding referendum. At a minimum, ILA’s position was that the bill was unnecessary and needed to be amended to reflect population thresholds and include school and park districts as well as libraries. The bill was not called for a vote.
Library Funding

The Illinois Library Association will work with a broad coalition of library advocates to improve funding for libraries. The association will:

- Work to restore legislated funding levels such as the school library per capita grants, and to continue to be vigilant to ensure public library per capita grants remain fully funded, and to explore alternative sources of library funding.
- Support legislative proposals to mitigate the harmful effects of the tax cap limitation act.
- Work with the legislature to increase the Secretary of State’s budget in order to increase the funding for the Illinois State Library.
- Work with the legislature to ensure responsible pension systems.

Intellectual Freedom and Privacy

The Illinois Library Association is committed to protecting intellectual freedom and privacy while providing open access to information for all Illinois residents. The association will:

- Continue to educate the public on the safe use of the Internet, including interactive web applications, by children.
- Continue to oppose legislation mandating the use of Internet filters in libraries.
- Encourage governing boards of schools and libraries to develop an Acceptable Internet Use Policy with input from their community.
- Continue to oppose legislation that erodes the privacy of library users.

Access to Library Services

The Illinois Library Association believes access to library services should be a right and responsibility of every Illinois resident. The association will:

- Oppose legislation that would erode public library service areas.
- Work to extend tax-supported public library service to the 10 percent of Illinois residents currently unserved.
- Work to ensure libraries are established in good faith with intentions to operate as a library.
- Work to ensure that school library legislation is expanded to equip all school libraries with certified media personnel.
- Encourage and support initiatives that increase connectivity by ensuring libraries are critical partners in cost-effective broadband planning and build-out.

Increase Effectiveness of Illinois Libraries

The Illinois Library Association is committed to promoting legislation that will increase the effectiveness of Illinois libraries. The association will:

- Work to develop library legislation that is comparable to legislation benefiting other entities of government.
- Work to develop initiatives that improve the ability of Illinois libraries to provide library services to the citizens of Illinois.
- Work to ensure transparency of government and access to information in ways that are cost effective for governmental entities.
- Provide measured, thoughtful direction for legislation that could provide administrative cooperation and public service enhancement that result in economies of scale to libraries.

Cumulative Surplus

The growth in ILA’s net assets has been a conscious strategy over the past twenty-one years, with the goal of producing an annual budget surplus.

From 2009 to 2013, annual budget surpluses were largely used to build an operating reserve equivalent to 50 percent of ILA’s annual budget, a directive from the executive board. Once that milestone was reached, the board redirected resources to updating and building infrastructure to support future growth and stability.

The strategies that have contributed to realizing these goals include a focus on earned income projects, such as summer reading and our group insurance program, and also on operating with a small staff and holding overhead and other costs down.

During this same period, other professional associations have faced declines in their traditional sources of revenue—membership, conference, and publications. The need for innovation and entrepreneurial efforts within ILA is as strong as ever.

New for 2017

Trace the history of book banning alongside the emergence of the principle of freedom of expression—and see how both are woven into the fabric of America’s literature, politics, education, and culture. In this new edition, an encyclopedic listing of book-banning incidents is framed by text that includes summaries of pivotal Supreme Court cases, quotations about censorship that are perfect for sharing on social media, and an action guide for everyone who wants to help protect our First Amendment freedoms.
