RESTORING
RECONNECTING
Dear ILA Members and Friends,

When I ran for ILA Vice President/President-Elect in April 2019, I couldn’t have imagined what was in store for libraries, or the world in which we now operate. As my term as ILA President began in July 2020, we were in the thick of the COVID-19 pandemic. So much was still unknown and every day was filled with fear and uncertainty. Through it all, libraries and the Illinois Library Association worked hard to continue the services our patrons and stakeholders needed, in the safest way possible. Over the course of the year, we became optimistic about reopening our public spaces, then hesitant as the virus surged again, but we did not give up. Although each library needed to approach the pandemic based on the specific needs of those it served, the Illinois library community came together as a whole to support and guide one another. As the theme of the first-ever virtual annual conference reminded us, “Many Libraries, One State: We Are ILA.”

Through the fall and a contentious presidential election, followed by violence at the nation’s Capitol, the danger of disinformation became ever clearer. We issued a strong statement condemning the January 6 violence, rooting our stance in our strategic plan’s listed core values of the library profession: information access, equity, intellectual freedom, and objective truth. In our annual series of Library Legislative Meet-ups, we kept on message, emphasizing libraries as vital to the reopening of the state.

As I write this, I currently serve as the association’s Past President, whose primary responsibility is to chair the Nominating Committee, as well as the Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Subcommittee of the Executive Board. This subcommittee keeps ILA leadership accountable and led the process to create a foundational document to guide the association’s DEI work. I look forward to helping our association recruit the next group of leaders to take ILA into the future; and stewarding the Executive Board in its efforts to continue the momentum re-energized last year toward our strategic goals of a culture of diversity and inclusion in the association, and the profession. I am so proud of, and appreciative of, everyone’s participation in the association as we restore, reopen, and reconnect our libraries, our communities, and ourselves.

Here’s to 2022 and beyond,

Veronica De Fazio, Plainfield Public Library
ILA President, 2020–21

2020–21 is the second full governance year with ILA’s strategic plan (approved in April 2019). In 2020, it was difficult to focus on moving forward our strategic priorities as everyone was coping with the national crisis of the pandemic, although having a strong strategic plan in place helped the association continue to function and serve our members during that time. As the state began to re-open, we were able to refocus our attention back on our strategic goals. A July 2021 assessment included the following progress toward the association’s strategic priorities since the prior (2020) report:

Strategic Priority: A Culture of Diversity and Inclusion in the Association

- Creation of DEI Subcommittee of the Executive Board

- Instituted “Courageous Conversation” ongoing trainings for Executive Board and staff
- Best Practices Committee’s work to develop a land acknowledgement statement

ILA’S ADVOCACY EFFORTS

We began ILA’s fiscal and governance year in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic, as Illinois was preparing to move through the stages of Governor Pritzker’s Restore Illinois plan to reopening. Alas, the pandemic continued to surge in fall 2020 and economic and legislative uncertainty persisted, with legislators’ focus entirely on how the legislature itself could continue to function virtually, and on how best to serve the state in crisis. With an awareness that libraries across the state differ in approach, depending on the situation in different communities; and that the desire for state guidance on matters including materials quarantine, closure to in-person public services, and more is weighted differently in different communities against the importance placed on local control; ILA opted to shift our advocacy focus to a broader one instead of our traditional agenda focused on specific pieces of legislation. That said, we did secure a few legislative victories: First, working with AISLE, we secured a school librarian position on the newly created Inclusive American History Commission, part of the Illinois Legislative Black Caucus’s education platform; also with AISLE, advocated for the successful inclusion of media literacy in Illinois high school curricula. Last but not least, we secured recent budget increases in the per capita grant rates for school and public libraries into statute.

Beyond that, our “asks” for legislators were three-fold: first, to keep library funding “whole;” second, if edicts were to be issued about library activities during the pandemic, to please check with the library community first; and third, to ensure library eligibility for and inclusion in any COVID-19 relief funding initiatives. We framed these “asks” in context of remarkable work libraries did and are doing during the pandemic, which we showcased at the 2021 Library Legislative Meet-ups.

Like everything else in 2020–21, the series of Library Legislative Meet-ups looked a little different with all events taking place online, and without the opportunity for conversation that convening over a meal has allowed in the past. What didn’t change was the enthusiasm and support for libraries expressed by the elected officials and their staff members in attendance and ILA’s articulation of the library position. We did not know what to expect regarding legislator and library participation in a virtual format, but participation was strong across the board, including record-high attendance at two of the events anchored in Southern and Central Illinois. The primary focus of our presentations was showcasing Illinois libraries’ vital work during the stay-at-home orders and beyond using the “Bigger than a Building” concept; and reporting on the productive use Illinois libraries made from CARES Act funding (see below).

Beyond advocacy with the Illinois General Assembly, ILA crafted a two-pronged approach to advocating for library workers’ eligibility for the COVID-19 vaccine, at a time of scarcity after its initial approval by the FDA. First, we reached out to the Illinois Department of Public Health for public librarians to be eligible for the COVID-19 vaccine in Phase 1b or Phase 1c at the latest, noting that decisions about the extent to which libraries are open to in-person public services are being made on a local level, and the localities will need to know that decisions they make are in keeping with state guidance. Second, we created a template letter for library directors to use to follow up with their own county departments of public health, where most of these decisions were being made. By late February, 13 counties had included library staff as eligible in Phase 1b or 1c; by mid-April, vaccine availability and had eligibility opened up in all 102 counties.

On the Federal Level

Library funding, both for COVID-19 relief and for regular appropriations, continued as the top federal advocacy issue this year. Following four relief bills the prior year including the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act, which included $50 million for libraries via IMLS and established the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP); the $1.9 trillion American Rescue Plan Act was signed into law on March 10, 2021. ARPA included unprecedented levels of funding for numerous sectors, including libraries, through various channels. ALA and ILA worked hard to identify and clarify opportunities for libraries. In Illinois, these programs included $4.7 million in IMLS funds made available via the Illinois State Library and $15 million nationwide available by application directly to IMLS; $1 million from the National Endowment for the Humanities made available via the Illinois Humanities Council; $933,000 from the National Endowment for the Arts made available through the Illinois Arts Council Agency and $80 million nationwide available by direct application to NEA; $7.17 billion nationally from the FCC for the Emergency Connectivity Fund; and $350 billion to state and local governments, for which libraries needed to work with their municipality to access.

Once again, ALA and its state chapters, including ILA, engaged in a campaign to secure “Dear Appropriator” letters in support of full funding for the Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) and the Innovative Approaches to Literacy Act (IAL) grant program in the Department of Education. For FY2022, we asked congressional appropriators to include funding of at least $206 million for LSTA and $50 million for IAL. President Biden’s initial budget included $265 million for IMLS, including $197 million for LSTA; and $28 million for IAL. Subsequently, the House Appropriations Committee approved an increase of $9 million for LSTA and a $3 million increase for IAL. In Illinois, both Senators signed both letters. Representatives Casten, Danny K. Davis, Schneider, Foster, and Bustos signed both letters; Rush, Kelly, Krishnamoorthi, Newman, and LaHood signed the IAL letter; and Schakowsky signed the LSTA letter. As of the writing of this report, a 2022 budget resolution has passed the House and the Senate, and negotiations over the $3.5 trillion reconciliation package are in progress.

In addition to COVID-19 relief funding and regular appropriations, ALA spearheaded a campaign for a proposed $5 billion Build America’s Libraries Act as part of the Biden administration’s and 117th Congress’s focus on infrastructure. Negotiations over the infrastructure package and the budget resolution continue. In Illinois, Senator Durbin and Representatives Kelly, Newman, Garcia, Casten, Danny K. Davis, Krishnamoorthi, Schakowsky, Schneider, Foster, and Bustos cosponsored BALA.
ILA continuing education also continued virtually, including the second Director’s University—a collaborative project of ILA, IHLS, RAILS, and the Illinois State Library. Conducted weekly online from June through September, this series featured its typical educational lineup of sessions covering public library budgeting and finance, human resources, policies, and records retention, and more.

ILA presented Reaching Forward South and Reaching Forward both online on April 16 and May 7, respectively, branded as “Reaching Forward Illinois.” Both were accessible to registrants for one low, combined price of $50; popular programs included “RA for All: Think Like a Reader,” “Understanding Challenges to Library Materials and How to Respond,” and “Weeding Without Tears.”

Mark Puente, Associate Dean for Organizational Development, Diversity, and Inclusion at Purdue University Libraries and School of Information Studies presented the workshop “Conscious Actions for Inclusion” for the Elevate Library Leaders event. Elevate is a project of ILA, IHLS, RAILS, and the Illinois State Library designed for librarians at any level to develop their leadership skills.

The “Noon Network,” a series of midday micro-learning webinars on various topics designed to help achieve professional development goals, launched in April 2020 and continued in 2020-21. Webinars are held at noon on Mondays and Wednesdays for 20 to 30 minutes followed by a question-and-answer session; topics included “Intellectual Freedom in an Age of Political Polarization: A Conversation with Emily Knox and Nadine Strossen,” “Librarianship Specializations: Beyond ‘Traditional’ Library Careers,” and “Sacred Ground: A Conversation with Timuel Black.”

The Marketing Forum’s annual Mini-Conference has become a highly popular and successful event. After postponement in 2020 it was held in April 2021 and was titled “Impact and Influence,” and featured Adam Harris, head of communications and storytelling for the Arlington Heights School District 25; Anna Popp, consultant for the Massachusetts Library System; and Katharine Uhrich, social media manager for the Field Museum.

The Illinois Association of College and Research Libraries (IACRL) Forum began a new series of online events known as “Spark: Connect and Get Fired Up,” designed to foster sharing and connection among academic librarians. Three have been held to date, in addition to a series of online town halls. Recordings of all IACRL webinars are available on the Forum’s page on the ILA website.
ILA enjoys a diverse array of revenue sources, making the association unique among state chapters of ALA. Membership, continuing education, and publications are all traditional sources of revenue; the iREAD® summer reading program enables ILA to survive and thrive as traditional revenue sources face pressure from tight budgets and changing environments. The Fund for Illinois Libraries continues to offer ILA institutional members who do not have their own associated foundations or friends groups a way to accept donations, primarily from corporations that require a 501(c)3 for their philanthropy. Our long-term investments help ensure the Association’s continuity; although the portfolio is managed conservatively, we do typically see investment returns, which were particularly strong in 2020–21.

iREAD marked its 40th year in 2021 with the theme, “Reading Colors Your World.” Committee chair Alexandra Annen led an effort that included art by a fantastic array of illustrators including Yuyi Morales, Oliver Jeffers, Zach Lehrer, and Hervé Tullet. The U.S. Department of Defense continues to purchase iREAD resources and incentives for military libraries worldwide; and the 2021 program was implemented in states well beyond Illinois’ borders, including statewide adoptions in Alaska, California, Iowa, Minnesota, Oregon, and Washington, and individual libraries in more than 25 states.

Contributions to the association also continue to increase, most notably through the Illinois Library Luminaries program, which supports the ILA Endowment and saw three new inductees in 2020–21, Janice M. Del Negro, James R. Johnston, and Patricia Jarog. Contributed income also helps build ILA’s array of restricted funds, which primarily support awards and scholarships, including the Hugh C. Atkinson Memorial Fund, the Diversity Scholarship Fund, the Intellectual Freedom Fund, the Legal Defense Fund, the Valerie J. Wilford Memorial Fund, and the Robert R. McClarren Fund. For the second year, the ILA Executive Board itself voted to transfer $10,000 from ILA’s net asset balance into the Diversity Scholarship Fund, the Intellectual Freedom Fund, the Legal Defense Fund, the Valerie J. Wilford Memorial Fund, and the Robert R. McClarren Fund. For the second year, the ILA Executive Board itself voted to transfer $10,000 from ILA’s net asset balance into the Diversity Scholarship Fund, to enable it to support initiatives broader than its traditional role in the Sylvia Murphy Williams Scholar program.

There is no doubt that the Association’s fiscal profile is different than before the pandemic necessitated changes, particularly to our business model for continuing education and events. We have striven to offer valuable programming for a reasonable cost; and have added a great deal at no cost. We can afford to do this, temporarily, thanks to the strong financial position that has been deliberately constructed over the years. One of the brightest spots among a difficult time is our membership, which has remained strong through the second year of the pandemic; ILA ended the fiscal year at 99% of our budget for dues. Our purpose for existing is our members, and we would not be here without you.

Cumulative Surplus

The growth in ILA’s net assets, particularly net assets without donor restrictions, has been a conscious strategy over the past 20-plus years, with the goal of producing an annual budget surplus that will build up a reserve fund of net assets without donor restrictions equal to at least 50% of the subsequent year’s budgeted expenses, according to ILA fiscal policy. This goal has been achieved since 2013; this year, of the net assets listed in the chart above, $2,456,864 are without donor restrictions. The expense budget for 2021–22 totals $2,891,006; 50% is $1,445,503.
